Rules

1. Team size is capped at 4 people.
2. Participants must be in a high school or undergraduate level of study.
3. Teams must not write any code before the hackathon, but using freely available libraries, frameworks, and runtimes is permitted and encouraged.
4. Teams must stop working when time is up, but small bugfixes will be allowed at organizer discretion.
5. Respect each other! Individuals are expected to conduct themselves in a responsible manner, which includes treating others with respect, dignity, and acceptance. Failure to do this will result in ejection from WWPHack.
6. Teams can work on ideas that have already been done, but in order to have a chance at winning, teams that use existing ideas should make an effort to improve upon them.
7. Teams can use ideas they had before the event - brainstorming ideas before a hackathon is always a good idea!

Behavior Code

Based on MLH's Code of Conduct

In a nutshell: Make the experience of being around you a positive one! Never verbally or emotionally hurt others, and if something at the event makes you uncomfortable, contact us ASAP.

WWPHacks stands for inclusivity. Every single person has the right to work in a safe, welcoming, and enriching environment. Do not harass other attendees, and if you are being harassed, let us know! In this context, harassment will be defined as persistent insult directed at someone's gender, age, sexual orientation, disabilities, physical appearance, body size, race, religion, social class, economic status, or veteran status. If anything you are doing is making someone else annoyed or uncomfortable, cease immediately. Finally, ensure that any projects you make do not use any sexualized or graphic imagery, activities, or other content. Any such projects will be disqualified and the offending team will be immediately ejected from the event.

Reporting Procedures

If you believe that a violation of the Code of Conduct has occurred within WWPPhacks, please report it using one of the options detailed below.

You can use the WWPPhacks event assistance line:

Send an email to help@wwphacks.com

To contact presidents: (Email preferred, use phone number only for anonymous reporting)

Jivitesh Irivichetty, President	Akash Bobba, Vice President
